Futurologis, Exhibition Architecture

This event focuses on the most significant architects, interior designers, engineers of the last 60 years, who have come from Poland or have Polish roots and are working in Great Britain now. They are extraordinary designers, thinkers, and artists in the defined industry.

Experience their vision and explore a fascinating world of multicultural dynamics in architecture.

Architects are always working to the future. It takes years, even decades, for plans to be realised. The architect designs today, but with the consideration of forthcoming technological innovations and aesthetic developments. Inherent in the profession, the architect is ever on precarious footing with the future and thereby, necessarily, the past.
